LIGHTNING HIT REEVE'S HOME

One Fellow Reports That he Was Thrown From His Bed by the Shock.

SALOME DANCE BY FIRE BALLS

Spectacular Was the Fireworks in the Heavens—Horrible Night
For Timid Grown-Ups.

Terrifying was the electrical, wind and rain storm which swept over this community at an early hour this morning. People were aroused from their peaceful slumbers and in some instances, near the spots where lightning struck, they were tossed about in their beds.

Lewis Frazee, son of John P. Frazee, declares he was thrown from his bed when the bolt of lightning struck near his home. Byron Cowing reports that he was awakened by the loud report of the thunder clap that followed, and on rising in his bed saw balls of fire dancing around the room.
It is thought that they experienced
these things when the lightning struck the home of Capt. J. B. Reeve, in that neighborhood. The chimney was struck and aside from displacing several bricks and giving the occupants of the house a severe shock, fortunately no other damage was done.

A large tree in the yard of Phillip Miller in North Willow street, was struck by lightning and the tree
"grounded." Farmers complain that lightning did damage in the country, but so far no fires or the killing of stock has been reported. To those who do not fear lightning the heavens presented a beautiful spectacular effect last night. Flash after flash came, followed by the roar of thunder, some of which sounded like the crack of doom. It was a horrible night for small children and timid grown-ups. Throughout the heated night many parents were obliged to have one or more of their offsprings snuggled up close to them, where they "bundled in" after they quit their little cots when fear overcame them.

OLD ROBACK CASE HEARD FROM AGAIN

Damage Suit Heard in the Rush Circuit Court, Has Another Inning.

BEEN IN APPELLATE COURTS

The following story will be read with interest here as the case referred to was tried in the Rush
county circuit court:

"Additional authorities have been submitted in the Appellate court by the appellee in the case of the City of Greenfield vs. John F. Roback, appealed from the Henry circuit court.

"The case has been in the Appellate court nearly two years and a decision is expected this fall. Mr. Ro-back was injured by a fall on Meek street, one evening three or four years ago, and was given a judgment of $7,500 in the Henry circuit court in a suit for damages, brought against the city of Greenfield. His fall was due to the torn up condition
of the street at the time."

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

A marriage license was issued Saturday to Miss Fanny D. Anderson and Carl Thomas Hart.

Short Serial Story By Local Author

By "special arrangements" with the author, the Daily Republican will begin a short serial story Wednesday,
this week, entitled "A Latter Day David and Goliath." It is a story dealing with county option and shows
the power of women in politics and the influence they have in furthering a great moral issue. Plenty of county election color is introduced and for the most part is accurately chronicled. The story of a young lawyer's triumph against a battle of odds, with a pretty love tale woven in, is the theme of the piece of fiction.
The story is the work of Tom J.
Geraghty of the Daily Republican,
and is the first of any of his fiction (?) to appear in a local publication despite the fact that several have claimed some of the news stories, from time to time, were fiction. Such claims were made when the news stories "pinched" certain individuals, for sometimes the truth
"hurts."

One good thing about the story,
most any reader can easily discern
the vast difference between the author's work and that of Balzac—the contrast is so marked. And then again, it is used to fill up a gap between the expiration of our story,
"The Man From Home," now running and George Barr McCutcheon's "The Man From Brodney's" which will begin in the Daily Republican soon.

Another good thing about "A Latter Day David and Goliath" one can begin and leave off reading it any old time—it is just as good one place as another. If you are not particular about your light reading start with the opening chapters Wednesday evening.

OFFICIAL DAY WITH THE PRESBYTERIANS

Event Was Enjoyed by Those Who Attended—May be Made an Annual Observance.

PASTOR GAVE STRONG SERMON

Official's Day was very appropriately observed at the First Presbyterian church Sabbath morning. The church officials were seated in a body
on the pulpit rostrum, and a number of these had minor parts on the program. The sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Cowling was one on the theme "We Are Laborers Together," and was a strong, earnest and helpful discourse.

The special music was given under the direction of T. A. Craig, and was especially fine. While the attendance was not large, owing to the sultriness
of the day, the service was greatly enjoyed and appreciated, so much so that the officers have been asked by many to make this observance an annual event. Owing to the fact that Rev. and Mrs. Cowling were called to Northern Michigan by the death of the aged mother of the latter, there was no service at night.

The regular communion service will be held next Sabbath morning, July 4. Preparatory services will be held Friday evening in the lecture room of the church.

DIDN'T STAY LONG.

Shelbyville Republican: Clyde Whittaker, who had a position playing in the Palace theater at Rushville
during the summer went there Thursday night, where he filled one evening's engagement. He returned home
the next morning.

The Tri Kappas will meet with Miss Alice Winship at her home in West Fifth street this evening.

AUTHORS TO DO THE PRESS WORK

Charles Virgil Tevis and George Randolph Chester Bringing Spectacle to Cincinnati.

THE BATTLE IN THE CLOUDS

Pain's New Spectacle the Production —Press Stories Will Probably be Masterpieces.

The Cincinnati newspapers today contained the intelligence that the Pain's Firworks Company will give their great spectacle "A Battle in the Clouds" at the Cincinnati base ball park for two weeks beginning July 12 and running until July 24, with the exception of the Sunday intervening.
But the most interesting fact, and one that will be of local interest is that the spectacle will be given in the Queen City under the auspices of George Randolph Chester, the greatest writer of short stories in America, and Charles Virgil Tevis,
on the staff of the Cincinnati Sunday Enquirer, and the son of Dr. V. W.
Tevis, pastor of St. Paul's M. E.
church, this city. Both are recognized writers of fiction and the public can be doubly assured of some brilliant press stories before and during the spectacle's stay in Cincinnati. Think of two authors managing the production of a big spectacle and looking after the publicity
end of it!

The "Battle in the Clouds" is the best thing ever put out by Pain and several airships are introduced,
where on high they do battle with each other for supremacy of the air
—the clouds being the battlegrounds.
About three hundred people are used in the production.

FELL IN AN OLD CISTERN

Young Man Had a Narrow Escape
From Sewer Gas and Drowning.

Roy Harrold, city editor of the Daily Republican, had a narrow escape from serious injury Sunday.
A party of which Harrold was a member, was enjoying a country dinner at Fayetteville, and after the spread, Harrold repaired to a side yard where he fell into a cistern.
Fortunately Harry Wyatt was near and rescued him before he even spoilt his summer flannel trousers. Wyatt vouches for the truth of the fall
and the rescue.

WILL WRITE WITH BLOOD.

Miss Bess Kinsley, a clever newspaper "girl" of Greenfield, and who frequently visits Rushville, being the guest of Mrs. Walter Peters, was chosen last week at the State convention at Alexandria to be the editor of the Cross Keys, the official magazine of the Tri Kappa sorority.

DAMAGES ASKED OF TRACTION CO.

Widow Wants $10,000 For Death of Husband—Was Killed Near

FILE SUIT IN HANCOCK COUNTY

Henry Reasoner Was Killed as he Was Driving Across Country Road Crossing.

A suit for ten thousand dollars damage against Charles L. Henry, receiver of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Co., was filed Saturday
in the circuit court by Jackson & Sample on behalf of George Hack, administrator of the estate of Henry Reasoner says the Greenfield Republican.

The suit comes from an accident that occurred in August, 1908, at the crossing of the highway and the traction road a mile and a half west of New Palestine, in Sugar Creek township, where Henry G. Reasoner was killed by one of the defendant's cars.

It is alleged in the complaint that for more than 200 feet the crossing was in plain view of the motorman, who could see that the horses driven by the deceased were frightened and unmanageable, but that the employes of the company made no effort to stop the car.

Mr. Reasoner was thirty-two years old at the time of his death and suit
is on behalf of the widow.

BEN L. SMITH CHAMPIONS CAUSE

Comes Forward With a "Signed Statement" Exonerating Leslie Champion,

SAID TO BE AN HONEST MAN

Leslie Champion is vindicated. He is the man who is supposed to have picked Ben L. Smith's cherries on the shares. From reliable sources it was heard Saturday that he picked his share and left the remainder belonging to the owner on the tree. Now comes said owner with a signed statement, vindicating and exonerating Champion beyond a reasonable doubt. The statement follows:
Editor Republican:

In your columns of Saturday, June 26, a little item appears that does Mr. Leslie Champion a great injustice. He picked cherries for me on the shares and gave me more than one-half he picked. He is an honest man. Will you please publish this on Monday, so that he may be relieved from this charge if it amounts to anything. BEN L. SMITH.

RIGHT CHURCH—WRONG PEW

Jim Lakin Lives in Los Angeles Instead of San Francisco.

In a recent issue of the Daily Republican a news item appeared which stated that Mr. and Mrs. William B.
Poe of this city were the guests of Jim Lakin in San Francisco. Mr.
Lakin writes from California to the Daily Republican to make a correction and says they live in the "more sunny and salubrious Los Angeles." He adds that they are enjoying the best of health.

AN ATTRACTIVE ATTRACTION

Connersville Wants Rushville Couples
and Their "Couple" of Babies.

The Fayette Free Fair has been responsible for a good many things, says the Connersville Examiner, but the latest report from Rushville efedits the big show with starting a circumstance that don't happen often.
The story of two new babies in that town is interesting, and if they could be brought here with their mammas
and papas, for exhibition this fall,
they would prove a great feature no doubt.

PROMINENT MAN DIED SATURDAY

John Jones Expired at His Home,
North of Andersonville at Age of Sixty Years.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD TODAY

John Jones, commonly known as "Beadle," expired at his home north of Andersonville Saturday morning at ten o'clock. The physician pronounced death due to infection of the bowels. The deceased was sixty years of age.

He is survived by three sons, Clifford, Earnest and Glenord and two daughters, Mrs. Willard King of New Salem, and Luella, who lives at home,
and a wife.

The funeral services were conducted from the Orange Christian church
this morning at ten o'clock by Rev.
L. W. Thompson of Greenfield. Burial
in the upper cemetery at Orange.

YOU UNGRATEFUL THINGS!

Can't You Give a Woman Two or Three Years Off Her Life?

The Rushville Republican tells of a "willowy widow" of forty-three who had won the undying affections of a youth of nineteen, the pair being licensed to marry, says the Connersville News. Later the Republican says the widow was "born during the civil war." Now, according to the best information obtainable at this print shop the civil war closed more than forty-four years ago. Therefore the wily, willowy widow must have fooled some people as to her age, including the county clerk and the reporter.

HIS HONOR—THE MAYOR.

On account of the promiscuous explosion of fireworks which generally precedes a holiday, and being unexpected, causing runaways, fires, etc., Mayor Harvey M. Cowing respectfully calls the attention of the people of Rushville to the following ordinance, which he declares he will enforce to the letter:
That every person who shall fire any crackers, rockets or other fireworks on the streets or alleys of said city, except on the Fourth of July and other legal holidays, without first having obtained permission from the city marshal so to do shall upon conviction thereof be fined, forfeit and pay to said city any sum not exceeding ten dollars
for each offense.

Rushville is going to boom.

SOUNDS LIKE A NATURE FAKE

Tree Said to be Growing From a Wire Fence in the City of Greensburg.

ANOTHER FROM MAN'S HOUSE

Trees Don't Seem to be Particular
Where They Grow in the Tower
Tree City.

From every indication it seems that trees in Greensburg are not very particular where they grow, says the Greensburg News. A winged seed would just as soon be wafted to the roof of some house to seek nourishment from accumulated dust and water in eve troughs, as it would to be deposited upon the ground.

For years the lone tree on the court house tower has lorded it over all the trees in this part of the world.
Now it has a rival hot on its trail for honors. The lone tree is on the pinnacle of the tower, a second tiny maple appeared at the corner of the tower and a report to this office today shows that Sam Deem, living on North Franklin street, can point with pride to a tree that is growing on the roof of his residence.

This little tree was noticed some days ago by neighbors. It has sprouted in an eve trough and bids fair to live for some months at least. With the Deem tree turning attention to the north part of the city, Morris McQuiston, a resident of the west part of town, is going to hold honors for his vicinity, if possible, for he comes forward with a statement of two trees growing in a (wire) fence in the rear of his yard.
They are cherry trees and are destined to live so their owner can point to them with pride, providing no one with the same instincts as the father of his country had when he busted up the cherry crop for his mother in the good old colonial days, gets them first. The appearance of these trees is indeed causing much wonder and not a little comment. The fence is a wire one, too, though the trees are sprouting from a board, having in soom manner taken root in a crack
in the timber.

Giant Pin Oak Cut Down on Jacob
Blackledge's Farm—Forty-Six Inches in Diameter.

WAS 44 FEET TO FIRST LIMB

What is said to be the largest tree in Rush county was cut down on the farm of Jacob Blackledge, northeast of this city Saturday by Case & Joyce. The big growth was of the Pin oak variety and measured forty-six inches in diameter. The height of the tree was not taken, but it measured forty-four feet to the first limb. The men spent the greater part of the day cutting it down.

GOING TO TEST NEW GAS LAW

Indianapolis Company Will Resist 60-Cent Gas.

AN INJUNCTION DEMANDED

Declaring That the Operation of New Law in Indiana Applying to the Cost of Gas at Indianapolis Would Deprive It of Its Property Without Due Process of Law, Gas Company Asks the Federal Court to Enjoin the Enforcement of the Law—City Will Resist to the Last Ditch.

Indianapolis, June 28.—Frederick E. Matson, corporation counsel, will fight to the last ditch in upholding the constitutionality of the 60-cent gas law, which is attacked in an injunction suit filed in the federal court by the Indianapolis Gas company. Contending that the enforcement of the law will deprive it of its property without the due process of law, the company has asked that the city and Elliott R. Hooton, prosecutor, be enjoined permanently from compelling the company to reduce its price of gas to 60 cents a thousand cubic feet. The company also asked for a temporary restraining order.

Judge Anderson named July 3 as the date for hearing on the temporary restraining order, but Mr. Matson will ask for an extension of the time. The counsel said that he would not have time before July 3 to arrange a satisfactory defense.

The gas company bases its claim for a permanent injunction on the fact that its franchise right, obtained originally April 3, 1876, is without limitation and that the contract with the city, which expires July 5, 1909, does not make this franchise right invalid. The company declares that the men who have taken stock in the company and who have purchased bonds issued by the company did so in the belief that its franchise right was valid and that enforcement of the 60-cent law will deprive these men of their property without due process of law.

CORONER FIXES BLAME

Formal Verdict Says Crew Caused Recent Deadly Trolley Wreck.

Valparaiso, Ind., June 28.—Coroner J. C. Carson has filed his verdict in the Chicago, Lake Shore & South Bend interurban line head-on collision near Cresterton, Ind., in which twelve persons were killed. The coroner says in part:

"I find that the cause of the collision was the result of the disobedience of a train order to train No. 59, east bound, which read, 'Meet train No. 58 at Wilson.' I would therefore place the entire responsibility of the wreck upon the mismanagement in the operation of train No. 59 for disobeying said order in not taking the siding at Wilson as the order directed."

No action is recommended in the verdict. D. E. Kinney was conductor of train No. 59. The motorman, Geo. Reed, was killed.

Henry M. Dowling of the Indiana railroad commission said of the wreck:

"One of the cars in the wreck, the one which carried the crowd from the automobile races, and therefore going east, was of an old type built wholly of wood. The west-bound car, of a later type, had running through it five 'I' beams, each about nine inches in height and seventy-two feet long. These were used for support for the floor. This car was virtually standing still when the crash came. The impact was so great that the floor was torn from these beams and the ends were sharply curved. The beams then became the real engines of death and were rammed through the heavily-loaded excursion car like great iron fingers. They killed ten of the twelve passengers who met death in the east-bound car. None was killed and none seriously injured in the west-bound car."

ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Charge Under Which Indianapolis Police Chief Is Indicted.

Indianapolis, June 28.—Charges of assault and battery have been preferred against Chief of Police Metzger, Capt. Asch and Sergt. Barmfuhrer of the Indianapolis police department in indictments returned by the grand jury yesterday. The police officers submitted to arrest and gave bond in the sum of $200 each.

The indictments are the result of the grand jury investigation, which started after Samuel Dowden, an attorney, was shot through the left leg by one of three officers who were riding in Chief Metzger's automobile, the shots having been fired at an automobile in which Dowden was riding at the time. The shots were fired, the police officers said, because they believed the autoist was exceeding the speed limit. The revolvers were fired at the automobile tires, but the shots went wild and one of them hit Dowden in the leg.

SECRET INQUIRY AT ST. MICHAELS

Mrs. Woodill's Death Being Quietly Probed.

SOME UNKNOWN WITNESSES

States Attorney Announces That Certain Witnesses Whose Names He Will Not Mention Are Expected To Throw Light On Shocking East Shore Tragedy—Finding of a Bottle of Narcotic Drugs In Eastman's Bungalow Leads To Theory That Girl Was Lured To Lonely Spot and Then Drugged.

St. Michaels, Md., June 28.—The final inquest into the cause and responsibility for Mrs. Woodill's death is being held today. States Attorney Turner after a conference with the foreman of the coroner's jury has determined to summon certain witnesses who have not been heard before.

"I do not want to give the names of these witnesses," said Mr. Turner, "as some of them may get away if the fact that they are wanted becomes known."

"What we want to do," he said, "is to establish the facts, and for this reason I shall have a rigid and most searching investigation. Among the witnesses summoned we wish to question closely the persons who most intimately knew Roberts, as they assert that Roberts (Eastman) could not have killed the girl. So far, I have been unable to get any tangible evidence whatever to show that any one other than Roberts committed the murder. All we have is his letter saying the deed was committed by a woman. There is nothing to back this up unless we can draw something from witnesses that has not been told yet."

The theory that Edith May Woodill was lured to "Lame Bob" Eastman's lonely bungalow without knowledge of where she was going and that she was drugged and detained there against her will, was advanced when a further search of the shack revealed a small bottle which a hasty examination showed contained a mixture of narcotic drugs.

This discovery tends to bear out the theory which the people of the community who knew and loved the girl long have wanted to believe. They never have listened to the idea that she was involved in a drunken orgie at the bungalow, and have contended that she lost her life in repulsing the advances of the man who acknowledged his guilt by snuffing out his own life when it seemed the hands of the law were about to be laid upon him.

BOY KILLED BY AUTO

Walked in Front of Machine Driven by Cincinnati Policeman.

Cincinnati, June 28.—An automobile driven by Patrolman Allen Moore of the First police district yesterday ran down and fatally injured Hyman Goldberg, thirteen years old.

Moore's first action was to notify police headquarters. He then hurried the unconscious victim to the hospital, where the youth died in less than half an hour, surrounded by his mother and several relatives, whose heart-rending cries could be heard in all parts of the institution.

From all accounts the accident was unavoidable and the officer was blameless, as the boy became confused and walked directly in front of the automobile.

The Roosevelts Sail.

New York, June 28.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the ex-president, has sailed for Europe with her daughter Ethel and her two sons Quentin and Archie. The first month of their trip will be passed with Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, Miss Carew, in the latter's villa near Rome. The remainder of the stay abroad will be spent in a tour of France, which was designed especially for Miss Ethel's benefit. Mrs. Roosevelt plans to return to the United States with the three children in November.

Tragedy in a Texas Church.

Chico, Tex., June 28.—While J. E. Moser, forty-seven years old, was on his knees in a church here, Roy E. Burnham, nineteen years old, his son-in-law, arose in his own pew and fired three shots at Moser, killing him instantly. Burnham's wife, who had recently left him, was beside her father when the shooting occurred.

Jumps To Death In River.

St. Carmel, Ill., June 28.—J. A. Phillips, manager of the Cumberland telephone office, committed suicide by throwing himself from the railroad bridge into the Wabash river. It is believed the suicidal impulse seized him suddenly when he looked down into the water. He was 37 years old and married.

Won Valuable Stake.

Paris, June 28.—Baron Maurice de Rothschild's chestnut colt Verdun won the Grand Prix de Paris, valued at $74,155.

DESPERADO HALTED BY EFFECTUAL SHOT

Montpelier Man Took No Chances With Dick Starr.

Hartford City, Ind., June 28.—Dick Starr, Blackford county's desperado and former convict, is apparently destined to die with his boots on. He was shot in the side and arm by George W. Humphreys, a laborer, at Montpelier. Starr probably will die, and Humphreys claims self-defense.

Humphreys was brought to this city and placed in jail to await an investigation. Starr had been drinking, it is said, and visited the Humphreys home at Montpelier. He berated and abused Humphreys and his family. He left to get his revolver, and with the threat that he would return and kill them all, Humphreys armed himself with a musket, and as Starr entered the front yard he warned him back. Starr flourished his revolver, and Humphreys fired. The gun was loaded with birdshot, and the charge entered Starr's side and arm.

Women in the Fields.

Evansville, Ind., June 28.—Owing to the scarcity of harvest hands in Gibson county, near Fort Branch, Ind., and in some parts of Spencer county, many farmers are working their wives and daughters in the harvest fields. Women drive binders and also shock the wheat after it is cut in the fields.

Threw a Peanut Shell.

Dayton, O., June 28.—While riding down the hill at the soldiers' home Police Officer Thomas Lanker threw a peanut shell from the car and his arm came in contact with one of the posts supporting the trolley. The member was badly crushed.

PITTSBURG FACES A PROLONGED STRIKE

Street Railway System Completely Tied Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—But one act of violence marked the first day of the greater Pittsburg street railways strike. Two negroes applied for positions at the Homewood barns and were roughly handled by alleged union sympathizers. No attempt was made by the car company to run cars during the day.

Greater Pittsburg walked Sunday amidst intermittent thunderstorms and a torrid sun. Only one street car, carrying the United States mail, moved in the city or suburbs. Persons living in outer Allegheny county used the hastily provided shuttle trains of the Pennsylvania railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio. On these trains the travel was extraordinarily light, so much so that at noon the railways took off the five minute schedules and substituted hourly service.

Downtown Pittsburg was deserted for the entire day except at the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways employees and the officers of the Pittsburg Railways company. At union headquarters, the strikers congregated early. The men unitedly declared for a long strike.

At the offices of the Pittsburg Railways company the executive officers consulted all day, planning their campaign to break the strike and to quickly settle the traction tie-up problem. Conveyances were early placed at a premium by enterprising wagon and cab owners. The taxi-cabs of the city did a stupendous business and were allowed to break speed limits in their efforts to handle the inter-resident district traffic.

At many of the churches morning and afternoon services were dispensed with.

More Ill Fortune for Wellman. Tromsø, Norway, June 28.—The steamer Arctic, of Walter Wellman's North Pole expedition, has returned here from Spitzbergen with her flag at half mast, bringing the news that Knud Johnson, one of the two men who remained at the Wellman camp this winter had perished in the pack ice and that the airship shed had been destroyed by a heavy storm.

The Corporation Tax Question. Washington, June 28.—The corporation tax question will receive the attention of the senate during the present week. Just when the subject may be taken up no one can say definitely, for that point must depend upon the time to be devoted to the consideration of the few schedules yet to be considered in connection with the tariff.

Death Follows Charges. Pekin, June 28.—Yang Shi Siang, who in 1907, succeeded Yuan Shi Kai as viceroy of the province of Chi Li, is dead from apoplexy following charges against him of corruption in connection with the Tien-Tsin-Pukow railway, and of deficits in the provincial finances.

Jury Agreed This Time. Connorsville, Ind., June 28.—The jury which heard the case of John Wilson, charged with the murder of his wife last March, returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree. Wilson had two trials, the jury in the first disagreeing.

MORE OF HIS FOLLOWERS SLAIN

In a Running Engagement Between American and Filipino Bandits Five of the Latter Were Killed, Making Thirty-One of the Band Killed Or Captured During the Past Month—The Wily Leader, Jikiri, However, Always Manages To Elude Capture.

Manila, June 28.—Successful operations against Jikiri's band of Moro bandits have been conducted during the last few days by Capt. Byralt, Rhodes and Anderson, commanding detachments of the Sixth cavalry that are co-operating with the mosquito fleet under Capt. Signor.

Capt. Anderson struck the band at Pata island, and in the running engagement that followed, five of the bandits were killed, a number wounded and several others were captured by friendly Moros. Thirty-one of the band have been killed or captured during the last thirty days, but Jikiri himself always manages to elude capture.

THE THIRTY-FIRST

Chicago Suffers From Another Gamblers' War Bomb.

Chicago, June 28.—An explosion supposed to have been caused by dynamite did untold damage in the business district here last night, injuring two or three persons severely and wrecking stores and windows for a block near Clark and Washington streets.

The exact nature of the explosion remains a riddle because of the great amount of debris thrown around the alley where it occurred. It is probably another in the series of gamblers' war bombs that have mystified the police of this city for two years. Bomb No. 30 in the series wrecked a saloon a few nights ago.

The center of the explosion was in an alley in the rear of the Central telephone exchange. This exchange was unable to do any more business during the night. Two restaurants facing on Clark street were blown practically into the street, food and dishes being scattered over the car tracks. In this alley also was the rear entrance to Powers & Gilberts' saloon, a headquarters for Martin B. Madden and his associates in the building trades. Madden and his men are figuring largely in labor disputes and have been the subject of grand jury indictments.

Another place opening into the alley, which was damaged to an equal degree with the saloon, was the cash register store of Mont Tennes who also conducts several alleged gambling places in the city. Windows in the Boston store were broken a block away. On the opposite side of Clark street also windows were crashed. The street was covered with glass an inch thick.

Iron gates fronting the alley were bent inward by the force of the explosion. When it sounded it was heard for miles over the city.

RAKED THE CITY

No Possible Hiding Place For Ling Left Unsearched In New York.

New York, June 28.—On the tenth day after the discovery of Elsie Sigel's body and presumably the nineteenth day after the crime was committed, the New York police are obliged to admit today that, if anything, they are a little further from any clue to the whereabouts of Leon Ling, the man who is thought to have killed her, than on the afternoon when her body was found wedged in a trunk in the rooms of a Chinaman in Eighth avenue. They still believe, however, that he will be run down. The most significant fact of the case is that there is absolutely nothing to indicate when or how Leon Ling left the city. If, it is argued, that he still remains here, hidden in the rooms of some friend, it can be answered that every house in Chinatown has been searched room by room and every wall and floor sounded. No isolated laundry, or restaurant has been overlooked.

No Ground For Excitement. Lexington, Ky., June 28.—Advices from Georgetown state that there is no mob sentiment there against Will Taylor, the negro youth now in jail charged with attempting a criminal assault on the four-year-old daughter of Zack Brooking, a white farmer. It is generally expected Taylor will be discharged as not guilty. The excitement and the ordering of troops from Lexington were the result, it is said, of some malicious joker's work.

Gave Big Bond.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 28.—A ball bond representing $350,000 in property, signed by every business man and professional man at the mining town of Hymers, was given for the twenty-five American miners accused of driving French miners from the camp.

JULY 4TH MUSIC

Patriotic Song for July 4th Specially Selected for Independence Day

This song was written by an officer of the American Navy during the War of 1812. It being very popular, although long out of print, is now republished in compliance with the request of many officers in the United States Navy and Army.

This song of patriotism and chivalry at its first production became eminently popular, and whenever the song has been sung, there it has awakened the patriotic zeal, admiration of heroism and veneration for the memory of those whose fidelity and love of home and flag and native land garnered the undying love of a grateful people.

It is with extreme pleasure that we give to our readers in our next Saturday's issue this rare old patriotic gem. We were very fortunate in being able to secure this number, and we are sure the selection will meet with popular favor.

This song, words and music will appear in Saturday's issue of the Daily Republican

This song will be sung Saturday night by Miss Iva Brown at the Star-Grand, and Miss Ida Liddle at the Vaude.

IOWAN'S WORLD TOUR.

Rich Farmer Will Go In Byways to Study Common Folk at Close Range.

Among the passengers who recently sailed from New York upon the steamship General Grant was an Iowa farmer, H. H. Paup, who lives one mile west of Shenandoah, Ia. He expects to be absent from a year to eighteen months in a tour of the world.

Mr. Paup will not follow the beaten paths, but instead will go into the byways, for he wants to see and study the common people at work and in their homes, having long had a desire to compare their mode of life with that of living in America. Mr. Paup is a bachelor, forty years old and prosperous.

Speaking of his greatest anticipations on the trip, Mr. Paup says that he has no desire to see the kings, dukes and other nobility, but wants to see the common people of the old world and that he will get out into the country in order to gratify this desire. He wants to see how they farm, how they care for and raise live stock, how they slaughter their cattle and hogs and how they do ordinary everyday things. He will visit England, Germany, Ireland, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden, India, China, Wales, Spain, Japan and the Philippine Islands. He expects to walk from Jerusalem to Jericho and investigate the mysteries of Rome and the Holy Land.

Not being pressed for time—or cash—Mr. Paup will follow the dictates of his fancy as the world is unfolded to him and he is beckoned onward, and some of his friends anticipate that he will not return under two years, knowing his propensity for investigation.

Mr. Paup says that he does not intend that the matter of securing knowledge shall be a one sided affair and in order that he may return in kind has made special preparations for imparting knowledge of the United States to those who evince any interest in us while he is engaged in extracting matters of interest from those he comes in contact with. The practical manner in which he went about preparing for this part of his journey is shown in a part of the contents of his traveling bags, which contain ears of corn, samples of wheat, oats, rye and barley, together with other products of the Iowa farm and garden. These he will exhibit to foreigners and in demonstrating the productiveness of the soil of this state.

WILL NOT COME "FOURTH."

The Fourth of July is the only holiday allowed the clerk of the circuit court, and this year he loses completely out, and the office will be open the entire year except Sundays.—But the outlook for a bountiful crop is good and Vern Norris is not worrying much after all.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

In a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.000 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

of the pocketbooks of Americans of moderate means grows increasingly difficult, and apparently it cannot be solved until that stern old economic law of supply and demand is made to reduce the present disparity between the producers of foodstuffs and the consumer. In addition to the steady movement from farm to city of the millions of aliens who have come to the United States during the last 25 years a surprisingly small percentage have become farmers. They also have felt and been unable to resist the lure of the city, with the higher wages of industrial life, and when they have drifted from the congested centers of population it has been mainly in railroad construction and mining. Immigration has contributed an immense demand for the products of the farm and the range without adding perceptibly to the supply.

To offset these two distinctively urban movements of population, both of them abnormal, there has been only the less than normal increase of the agricultural population, aided by improved methods of cultivation and the general use of labor-saving machinery, none of which has kept pace with the increase of the food consuming urban population.

THIS AND THAT

This time next week there won't be so many good, able bodied fingers as there are now.

Capt. Gwinn and Samuel L. Trabe have had their faces clean shaven and are now ready for a summer run.

Getting a liquor license now since that Elkhart judge declared the county option law unconstitutional, shall be called: "How to Dodge the County Option Law."

At least, if you can't do more, you can pick out the summer resort that you'd like to go to, if you had the price.

A happy and optimistic inmate of the county poor farm was asked today where he was stopping and replied: "Out at the Eastern hotel." There was pride, contentment and good nature evidenced in the reply.

They are telling it for a fact that Prof. Cushing, the bandmaster, who is quitting Rushville, became discouraged when two of the important members of the band had false teeth put in and no longer could play their instruments until they learned "a new way."

VALUABLE COLT KILLED.

A valuable colt belonging to Ed Keaton was struck by lightning and instantly killed one night last week in the pasture a short distance north of the fair ground.

Abe Martin Says

Abe Martin says today: "Th' town pump is 'bout th' only place left any more where you don't git skinned. There wuz a little discussion on th' corner last night after church 'bout th' hereafter. Editor Cale Fluhart said he believed a feller got ever-thing that wuz comin' t' him on this earth—unless he's a doctor."

AGED MAN GOES TO THE GREAT BEYOND

James McConnell, Living East of Glenwood, Died at an Early Hour This Morning.

SURVIVED BY SEVEN CHILDREN

James McConnell, living just over the Rush-Fayette county line, a short distance east of Glenwood, died this morning about three o'clock.

He was born in Ohio in 1826, and would have been eighty-four years old next March, had he lived. Death was due to a complication of diseases incident to old age.

The deceased is survived by seven children, three sons and four daughters, his wife having died twelve years ago. The funeral services will be conducted from the Ben Davis Creek church tomorrow afternoon, the funeral cortege leaving the residence at two o'clock. The remains will be buried in the church cemetery.

BROKE LEG WHILE PLAYING SLIP HORN

Was the First Report Received of an Accident Which Befell a Glenwood Youth.

PROBABLY WRONG VERSION

A report from Glenwood today came to the effect that a young man named Van Syke broke his leg near Longwood yesterday while playing a slide trombone. Later this was corrected by a statement saying that he broke it while singing first bass with a local quartette. John Mapes informed us later that Van Syke broke his leg (according to the way he had heard it) playing base ball at Longwood. He struck at a pitched ball with a long bat, missed the ball and hit himself on the leg. It was truly a case of long-wood.

Smart Tips For Men

Conservative effects are the rule in shirts. The stripes in them are generally of solid colors.

For the fall season changeable effects in glaces and moires will predominate in neckwear.

Grays, blacks and whites are returning as popular colors in suspenders.

Black silk or lisle socks and black low-cut patent shoes are fashionable.

WILL APPLY FOR A LIQUOR LICENSE

Shelbyville Saloon Keeper Will Appear Before County Commissioner in August.

JUDGE DODGE RESPONSIBLE

Clarence R. Bruce has decided to apply for a license to sell liquor when the Board of County Commissioners meet in regular session in August, says the Shelbyville Republican Saturday. His decision was made Saturday when he read a special dispatch in one of the metropolitan papers to the effect that Judge Dodge, of Goshen, judge of the Elkhart county Circuit court, had decided that the county local option law is unconstitutional.

Attorneys who have been engaged to look after the interests of the saloon men in this city, will be consulted by Mr. Bruce.

The first application of ManZan, the great Pile remedy, will almost instantly give relief. Continued use of ManZan for a few days will effect a cure. The tube in which it is put up has a small nozzle attached, so that there is no inconvenience whatever. ManZan is for the cure of any kind of Piles. It is sold here by Lytle's Drug Store.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Consternation filled the breasts of all the members of the Hackleman household. It was about two a. m. this morning. Mrs. F. G. Hackleman made the horrible and terrifying discovery and quickly awakened others in the house. It was during the storm when the elements were doing their blindest. Just the hour for spooks, burglars and the bats of midnight to do their deadly work. It was a burglar. There was no doubt about it. Half awakened by the storm, Mrs. Hackleman heard the bold intruder enter her room. She distinctly heard the door softly open. Her heavy breathing probably frightened the robber and realizing she was awake he quickly and quietly crawled under her bed. Every few seconds she could hear him move around. It was a nerve racking experience. When she could stand it no longer she gently pinched her husband's arm and awakened him. Then between heart throbs she managed to whisper to him what a grave situation confronted them. Something must be done. Maybe the man would come forth any moment—for the heat and humidity was intense—and pounce upon them for their lives. Every burglar story she ever heard flashed through her mind in rapid and vivid succession. Dr. Hackleman is no coward. He comes from a family of heroes, an uncle being no less than a general in the civil war. Then he has spent several hundred dollars for Knights Templar Paraphernalia and has even had his picture taken while thus attired. It was up to the doctor to do something. He would make an examination. That's his long suit—making examinations. But he generally charges for them. In this instance he made up his mind to "charge" on the intruder. And what do you think was the result of his investigation? He found their little dog crouched up in a far corner under the bed. The dog had been frightened by the thunder claps following the lightning flashes and poor little fellow he quit his regular sleeping quarters downstairs and joined the family—for misery likes company.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

DOG SAVED HIS LIFE.

(Shelbyville Democrat.)

Robert E. James, the dairyman living east of the city, was injured at about eleven o'clock Saturday morning by an angry bull. Had it not been for the presence of a Scotch collie dog that attacked the bull, there is small doubt that Mr. James would have been killed.

A TERRIBLE PRACTICE.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

A certain married woman will have to cease kissing married men while on the street corners. "This kind of business won't go," stated one of the officers to the Republican Saturday afternoon.

The performance was seen at two different places by the officers Friday night. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

MORE THAN LITTLE WONDER.

(Greenfield Reporter.)

"Little Wonder" is the name of the carrier pigeon that won the recent race from this city to Pittsburg when several hundred birds were released at the Pennsylvania station in this city. This was the beginning of a series of races to be held during the present season. The entry of 75 lofts totaled approximately 1000 of the very best and speediest homers to be found. Practically every bird was trained to the minute and well equipped to fly for the beautiful silver cup.

"Little Wonder," the bird that won the race, made a record of 1,040.58 yards per minute. This was known as the three hundred mile race, as this is the distance from this city air line to Pittsburg.

WILL NOT TAKE WATER.

(Columbus Republican.)

A dispatch in Saturday's Republican tells of a man over in Delaware who had not taken a drink of water for seven years. This seemed rather remarkable until it was discovered that Richard Conn, who is known to all of his friends and acquaintances as "Dick" had drank no water for the past twenty years. When asked why he did not drink water Mr. Conn said that it was not fit to drink, and added that it was fit only to bathe feet, sail boats on, furnish power for factories, etc.

Mr. Conn is a foreman at the Reeves & Co. factory and while at times his duties are very fatiguing he says that he never perspires. He says he enjoys the best of health and that he feels better, he believes, for his not using any water. He drinks nothing with his meals and says that he has no craving for water at any time.

BUY A COW, J. BENNETT.

(Richmond Item.)

The public already knows that serious differences, extending over a period of more than a year, have existed between Mr. Gordon and the present management of the Evening Item. These differences culminated in events that led to the separation of Mr. Gordon, at the annual meeting of the stockholders, from the editorship which he had so long and so ably conducted. But nothing ever occurred or ever will occur, which can obliterate the memory of the splendid services, both to our own community and to journalism in general, in all those former years of heroic struggle against the forces of wickedness and greed in our city and State. With a candor which was fairly startling in its utter sincerity, with a courage that never flinched from any personal danger or disadvantage to himself, he attacked the abuses he saw around him with a vigor that few writers,

CHAPTER XVII.

FACE TO FACE.

IF the roof of the building had collapsed and had left the persons there assembled in the room confronting death itself, there could have been no more complete astonishment.

It was Horace who first appreciated the somberness of the crouching, terror-stricken woman upon the floor. "Helene!" he whispered, but Pike stepped forward and waved him back. "You stand back!" said the lawyer. "She's his wife!" And at the words Horace fairly staggered. Daniel went on, pointing to the cowering Hawcastle. "And there's his best friend."

The words seemed to rouse some of the fighting St. Aubyn instinct in the earl, and his eyes flashed. "It's a lie!" he cried hoarsely. "I never saw the man in all my life before." "The lady seemed to recognize him," said Pike grimly. "I guess you won't have to jab your memory too hard. It's only ten years to St. Petersburg, Mr. Glenwood!"

"Almeric, go for the police!" ordered the earl.

"No, no!" cried the countess. "I can't stand it!"

Pike laid his hand upon Ivanoff's shoulder and spoke loudly: "Call 'em in! We're ready!"

Almeric, with a frightened glance around, stepped to the doors and threw them wide, calling as he reached the passage: "Tell that officer to bring his men here!"

He turned and again entered the room, and Pike's face lit up unpleasantly as he looked at him, then softened as he turned to Ethel.

"I want you always to remember that I consider it cheap at the price," he said.

There was a quick step without, and Von Grollerhagen entered, followed by Ribiere. For an instant he glanced about the circle and then spoke in a clear, ringing voice.

"There will be no arrests tonight, my friends," he said, and at the words Hawcastle sneered openly.

"This man goes, too!" he declared violently. "Call those carabinieri!" he reiterated to Almeric.

Von Grollerhagen smiled sweetly and raised his hand deprecatingly.

"The officer is not there. You see, the carabinieri have been withdrawn." He turned to Daniel. "For you, my friend, I have relinquished my incognito," Pike stared at him uncompromisingly, and the German turned to Lord Hawcastle.

"This man Ivanoff," he said, "is in my custody."

For a moment the two men measured each other, and then Hawcastle burst out violently: "By whose authority? Do you know you are speaking to the Earl of Hawcastle?"

Von Grollerhagen smiled. Ribiere stepped forward and addressed Hawcastle directly.

"More respect, sir!" he cried. "You are addressing the Grand Duke Vasil of Russia!"

Hawcastle paled and fairly staggered into the arms of his son, who reeled from the shock. The others stared uncomprehendingly, and Pike looked up with a curious frightened look upon his lean face. Quite slowly he moved to the table and rested a hand upon it and with the other caressed his chin. His eyes were looking straight ahead, and he murmured in awestruck tones:

"Good Lord! And think what—why, I've been calling him—doc!"

The grand duke perceived the agitation on Pike's face and came forward to take his hand.

"My friend," he said gently, "it has been refreshing." He spoke to Ribiere. "I shall take the man Ivanoff's statement in writing. Bring him to me with you."

"You are addressing the Grand Duke Vasil of Russia!"

side of the room that led to his private chamber. When he had gone Ribiere touched Ivanoff on the shoulder as a signal, and the stricken man arose. One glance he cast upon the guilty woman, who shrank so shivering into a corner as he gazed upon her, and then said:

"I would not touch you—even to strangle you!" and then to the thunderstruck Hawcastle he said: "God will let me pay my debt to the Earl of Hawcastle!"

In an instant he was gone, and Hawcastle, pale with rage and anguish, strode forward to Pike, who was smiling.

"Why, you"—the earl began, but Daniel raised his hand. He spoke softly, even gently.

"Oh, I hated to hand you this, my lord," he said. "I didn't come over here to make the fine flower of Europe any more trouble than they've got. But I had to show John Simpson's daughter, and I reckon now she ain't wanting any alliance with the remnants of Crecy and Agincourt."

From the other side of the sofa, where she had been sobbing on her brother's shoulder, Ethel came tremblingly.

"I have no choice," she said slowly. "You see, I gave Almeric my promise when I thought it an honor to bear his name. Now that you have shown me that it is a shame to bear it the promise is only more sacred. You see, the shame is not his fault, is it? You want me to be—honorable—don't you?"

"It is mine" the Earl of Hawcastle.

When she had finished Daniel was leaning well back on the table.

"Your father and mother—both—came from Missouri, didn't they?"

He sighed heavily, and she hung her head. Hawcastle looked toward the open door of the room and touched his son upon the shoulder. When they had reached the door the earl looked back and shook his fist at Pike.

"You haven't heard the last of this, curse you!" he said and disappeared quickly. Lady Creech, who had been in a semi-swooning condition, came suddenly out of her trance and gazed sharply about her.

"Don't mumble your words," she said sharply and rose to her feet. With a withering glance at Pike she turned to Ethel.

"Come, my dear," she said. "This terrible place is not for you. Let us go."

Horace came suddenly to life and closed his drooping jaw. He stepped forward and faced the old lady.

"My sister will remain for a time, Lady Creech," he said. "I will look after her—in the future."

Lady Creech put up her lorgnette and stared at him and with a haughty sniff left the room with the air of a conqueror. Pike gazed after her whimsically.

"There goes the last of the empresses," he said and looked down at his feet.

Twice Ethel essayed to speak, and twice she put out her hand in his direction, and both times she failed. Then, with a choking little sob, she picked up her dress and fairly ran from the room. Horace followed her quickly, and still Pike stood there in an attitude of incomprehension.

The point he had striven for had failed. He had shown this girl the true rottenness of the people she had tried so hard to ally herself with, and the knowledge had failed to move her. His brilliant plan had recoiled upon his own head and had resulted in more firmly implanting a sense of duty in her heart. He saw no way out now. At first it had been a desire—now it had become a duty, and he wondered if he had the right to withhold from her her patrimony.

It was not until he saw a dark figure with a bag in its hand walk quickly down the steps and out through the entrance garden, not until he had heard the creak of carriage springs and the muttered directions and then the crunch of the wheels, that he awoke. He called a passing servant—Mariano, it proved it be—and questioned him.

"Who was that?" he asked.

Mariano bowed deeply.

"It is minor" the Earl of Hawcastle," he replied. "He has gone to keep the appointment he have made some days since at Napoli, it is said."

CHAPTER XVIII.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

LADY CREECH was out early the next morning. Perhaps she had hoped that something might be saved from the wreck and recollected the ancient adage about the early bird. She was seated on the terrace having breakfast and keeping a keen eye on the main entrance when the hopeful Almeric appeared, yawning and inexpressibly bored.

"Mornin', aunt," he said.

"Where's your father, Almeric?" she demanded.

"Flew the bally coop for Naples last night. Seemed to be jolly well upset, you know. Feared this beastly convict chap would take a shot at him or something like that."

Lady Creech snorted.

"He always was a fool. Bah! He should have stayed. Where's the countess?"

"Naples: to look after the governor, I'd say. Went off this morning. Beastly about this convict chap, you know. What's to become of him?"

"I can at least give you some information," the old lady replied. "This grand duke person's obtained for the fellow a pardon by telegraph from St. Petersburg."

"How's the dear Ethel this morning?" asked Almeric when he had digested his astonishment.

"Behaving very peculiarly—outrageously, I might say."

"How?" demanded Almeric, stifling a yawn.

"Shedding tears over this Ivanoff's story. What's more, she has sent that dreadful Pike person to him with assistance."

"Money! By Jove! Good girl! Buying the beggar off to keep him from making a scandal for us! How's that?"

Lady Creech looked at him with something akin to admiration.

"Almeric! How clever of you! Of course she is! Your father will be pleased. What a pity he didn't wait!"

Daniel appeared at the top of the steps and, seeing the pair, came slowly toward them. As he reached the table where they sat he addressed Almeric.

"Your pa seemed in a hurry last night," he said.

Almeric started violently, but Lady Creech arose and, with a haughty glance, swept into the hotel. Pike looked after her and then back to Almeric.

"Oh, yes," the latter answered. "Had to catch a train—the pater had—he's easily worried by trifles, you know."

"Well, you don't worry—not too easy, do you, son?"

"Oh, one finds nothing particular this morning to bother one," the young man replied, yawning. "Nothing at all. Of course Miss Ethel is standing to her promise?"

"Yes, she is," replied Pike grimly, and Almeric went on:

"Ye-es, the governor only thought it best to clear out a bit until we were certain that she manages to draw off this convict chap—what you Americans call 'fixing him,' isn't it?"

Pike lifted a warning hand.

"Don't try to talk United States, son. Just tell me in your own way."

"Why," replied Almeric, "she's been giving him money, hasn't she? You took it to him yourself, didn't you? Naturally we understood what it was for. She's trying to keep the beggar quiet."

"So that's what she sent the poor cuss the money for, was it? That's the way you look at it, eh?" the American asked.

"Why, of course! What other reason could there be?" asked the other.

"Well, you know I'd sort of gathered it was because she was sorry for him—thought he'd been wronged, but, of course, I'm stupid!"

"Well, ray-thee! I don't know that it was so necessary for her to hush him up, but it showed a very worthy intention in her, didn't it, eh, now?"

Pike looked at him carefully.

"Would you mind my being present when you thank her for it?" he asked,

BIG SHIP'S UNKNOWN SPEED.

Mauretania's Skipper Says She Has Never Been Tuned Up to Top Notch. Captain Pritchard of the Mauretania, which had lowered her western record by thirteen minutes, was in fine humor after the big ocean liner had docked the other day at New York.

"The Mauretania has kept up a speed of 25 knots and over for nine consecutive trips. I do not believe that any one knows the speed that she can develop. Going home on one occasion I gave the order to let her out. This was between Queens-town and Liverpool, and the great speed she made astonished me. I learned later that she was not exerting her full power even at that time."

The steamship left quarantine a little after 6 o'clock, making another record by docking earlier than on any other trip.

Miniature Boy City For Michigan.

Judge Brown of Salt Lake City announced the other day that the model "boy city" which has been organized in summer for two years at Winona Lake, Ind., will be established this year at Pine Lake, near Charlevoix, Mich., from July 22 to Aug. 14. It is expected that more than 1,000 boys from twenty states will occupy the tents of the miniature city. They will print a newspaper, conduct a bank and a grocery, organize a common council, political parties and courts and hold elections, the purpose being to instruct the boys in "fair play civics."

River Transportation Test.

The United States Steel corporation has started an investigation of the relative values of water and rail transportation of large consignments of products intended for the south or any other point which can be reached by both rail and water. A model barge with 100 carloads of steel pipe, four solid trains, was recently started for New Orleans from Pittsburg, and at the end of the journey the cargo will be most carefully inspected for damage in transportation. It has been alleged by the water people that the loss by breakage on a rail consignment is four times that of a corresponding water haul.

The discovery of a secret process for the manufacture of noninflammable films for moving picture machines was recently announced by a company in Rochester, N. Y. Should these films possess the qualities claimed for them the thousands of moving picture shows throughout the United States will be comparatively safe from explosions and fires. A demonstration of the process for making the new film was given the other day at Rochester. The film is put through several baths, filters and mixtures, and an intricate mechanical apparatus is required for its manufacture.

HABIT

YOU HAVE probably not yet formed enough "habits." It is likely that you would find the "ad-answering habit" a dividend paying one—and one that would never lure you far away from the best thrift-creed ever devised.

A habit is usually formed through yielding to natural inclination. The ad-answering habit will have to be cultivated—perhaps against present inclination, and through an effort of will.

You are not in the habit of saying "impossible" are you?

Earle, Curber of the Sugar Trust

Brainy Philadelphia Lawyer Who Brought the Great Monopoly to Its Knees Is a Remarkable Reorganizer of Tottering or Wrecked Financial Institutions.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

BANK wreckers we have had in plenty. Canada as well as other outlying territory is populated by them. Scores of them are in the penitentiaries, and others ought to be there. Many have gone the suicide route to doubly dishonored graves. In China bank wreckers have their heads chopped off, but in the United States we chop off only a few bales of rhetoric and lawsuits. Somebody gets the money, and the depositors have the experience.

The bank savor, however, is a rarer article. I am not sure that I ever heard of more than one really worthy of the name, and this is to be a story of that one. His name is George H. Earle, Jr., and he hails from Philadelphia. Of course he is a Quaker. He is clean, educated, wealthy, high minded—in short, an American of the best type. He is a lawyer, as his father and grandfather were before him, although of late years he has become so immersed in the business of financial salvage that he has had to abandon his practice. Mr. Earle is fifty-three years old, tall and somewhat spare, but athletic and vigorous; is a private collector of old prints and coins, has a home in Philadelphia, an estate of great natural beauty at Bryn Mawr, Pa., containing a thousand acres, and a summer home in the Adirondacks. He is an expert swimmer and loves life in the open.

He is president of several banks and trust companies, most of which he put on their feet after they had been wrecked by "high finance," is a great the money, the security was forthcoming, whereupon Kissel gave himself a good commission for making the loan, elected himself and three of his clerks directors of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery company and proceeded to shut down the Camden works. At this Segal caught the aroma of a large African concealed in the cordwood. He said he had never dreamed of it before, but on this point there are dark suspicions. At any rate, he dreamed it now. The felix was out of the meal sack. The benevolent Kissel was none other than an agent of the sugar trust. The money Segal had borrowed was sugar trust money. The object of the octopus was to put him out of business, which it certainly did. His sugar works were shut down until he paid the loan, and he could not pay the loan until he could run his refinery and make some money. The trust had him coming and going.

One Man Driven to Suicide.

There is more of the story, though that is the nub of it. The Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia was involved with Segal, and when the sugar trust pressed for payment of its loan the Real Estate Trust company went to the wall and its president, Frank Hipple, committed suicide. It was here that Earle came into the game. He had already straightened out the affairs of a number of failed banks and had a reputation as a financial doctor and life saver. He was therefore made receiver of the Real Estate Trust, and from that hour the benevolent sugar octopus did not have things so much its own way. Earle found plenty of in-since the conduct of an honorable man or the suspicions of one of like character.

H. W. Taft Appears in New York.

Lawyers and financial men in New York who have followed the sugar trust matter are recalling this correspondence with not a little interest. The firm of attorneys "with Washington connections" was Strong & Cadwalader, of which, at the time Mr. Earle wrote, both Henry W. Taft, a leading counsel for the sugar trust in all the litigation growing out of the Segal loan, and George W. Wickersham, the present attorney general, were members.

The fact that Henry W. Taft is an attorney of the sugar trust in this identical Segal case, thus involving the law firm of which Attorney General Wickersham was a member, raises an interesting question as to what the present administration will do toward prosecuting the trust. Judging by the vigor with which Collector Loeb proceeded against the same trust in the matter of the short weight frauds, the law business of Henry W. Taft and of the firm of Strong & Cadwalader will have little or no influence on President Taft, and the prosecution will go forward with the same vim that marked Receiver Earle's case. If a private individual could accomplish what he did, what could not the United States government accomplish if it proceeded against the trust with all its great power? One of the most remarkable interviews that have appeared in years grew out of this identical suit. It was from no less a man than Samuel Untermyer, the famous corporation lawyer of New York, who was retained by Segal. Mr. Untermyer stated in effect that the government, if it were in earnest, could not only successfully prosecute the sugar trust, but many other gigantic corporations that pursue the same methods. That interview took the lid off.

Whatever the government does, however, George H. Earle has given the sugar trust a staggering blow. He has not alone wrested from it many millions of dollars, but has shown the country what can be done in curbing criminal combinations by any man who means business. That perhaps is the greatest service of all. Moreover, he has put the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia on its feet, thus saving the money of thousands of innocent depositors, and has made it possible for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company to open its Camden plant and resume business. For his services to the trust company he was unanimously elected its president.

Other Concerns Saved by Earle.

This is but one of a long series of tottering or wrecked institutions that George H. Earle, Jr., has successfully reorganized. Among the others are the Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit company, which he took when its stock was down to $5 per share and by cutting out the dead wood, judicious buying of wharfs and business principles brought it up until its stock is in the neighborhood of $100 per share; the Finance Company of Pennsylvania, which needed a strong bracing and in Earle's hands got it; the Tradesman's National bank, which got into deep water with its stock down to 50, called on Earle, was set on its feet and now is above par; the Market Street National bank, which was floundering, sent out a hail for Earle and is now selling at a premium of 60; the Reading railroad, which the last time it failed was put back on its feet by Earle and Frederick P. Olcott of New York; the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad, which struck a slump and went under, but with Earle as chairman of its committee of reorganization has been made a paying property, and the Chestnut Street National Bank and Trust company, involving the ownership of the great newspaper, the Philadelphia Record, all three of which Mr. Earle, with the help of one other receiver, put back into flourishing condition, although the bank and trust company had actually failed and the paper was heavily involved.

This noteworthy triple success was perhaps Earle's greatest achievement up to the time that he reinstated the Real Estate Trust company and the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company and forced the sugar trust to disgorge several millions of money, credits, stocks and bonds. And now, after the famous street car strike in Philadelphia, Mr. Earle has been asked by the mayor and councils to take charge of this situation and in a letter that boldly outlines his views and cuts to the heart of the question has consented to do so. The regard with which he is held in Philadelphia is shown by the fact that since his appointment public confidence that the traction question is at last in the hands of a man who will solve it has been generally expressed. The same trust in his ability and integrity was displayed several years ago when he took charge of a failed trust company. The manner in which this particular failure had been brought about had enraged the depositors, large numbers of whom entered suit. On Mr. Earle's mere appeal these suits were all withdrawn, he was given complete voting power for the depositors, and he finally paid them every cent with interest.

Despite his business energy, Mr. Earle is kindly in manner, with a singularly luminous smile. He has scarcely a personal enemy in the world. The universal good will he inspires is shown by an incident. He was educated in Harvard, but was forced to leave college because of ill health. When his class gathered on its twenty-fifth anniversary it presented its alma mater a fine stadium. The college asked what it could do in return. After consultation the class requested that the degree of master of arts be conferred on George H. Earle, Jr., which he had once sought, but had given up when he left college.

EXPLOSIVE ON TRACK

Evansville Police Unable to Find Clue to Perpetrators.

Evansville, Ind., June 28.—Police investigation proves that the attempt made late Saturday night to wreck a Fulton avenue car by an explosive of some kind was more serious than the company officials at first thought.

Chief of Police Brennecke, after going over the track and examining the car, concludes that dynamite or some other high explosive was used. The railroad torpedoes on the track, remnants of which were found after the explosion, were used to set off the more powerful charge, the chief believes.

The police are at work on the case, but have not the hint of a clue. The attempt to wreck the car, the most serious piece of violence since the strike began, has not created any public comment.

The company now has thirty-one of its striking carmen in service, it says. The strikers are about eighty strong. A repetition of Saturday night's attempt to damage a street car by explosives occurred at 11 last night when a Mary street car was turning the corner at Main and Franklin streets. The charge of explosive was heavy, but not enough to lift the car off the tracks. The windows were shattered and woodwork damaged. There was no one on the car but the crew, and both men escaped injury.

TRAIN NO. 13

Two Men Killed When Express Train Crashed Into Freight.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 28.—Express Train No. 13, on the Erie, was wrecked ten miles west of here and two men were killed, Fireman Harry Donolan and a train rider named Oliver Turner. The air hose on an east-bound freight broke and the train buckled, derailing two coal cars, one of which went over on the west-bound track, in front of No. 13, which was running at forty-five miles an hour. The engine tender and six express cars were derailed.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR $3,000,000 BREWERY

Secretary of Big Toledo Concern Makes Complaint.

Toledo, O., June 28.—C. Randolph Brand, secretary and treasurer, in a suit just filed, asks for the appointment of a receiver for the Huebner-Toledo Breweries company, which was organized in March, 1905, by the consolidation of the Huebner, Finlay and Grasser & Brand brewing companies, with a capitalization of $3,000,000.

Brand makes personal charges against James E. Pilliod, president of the company, including the allegation that Pilliod's conduct of the business was such that he made numerous friends for the local option movement. Pilliod was a prominent figure in the state liquor dealers' organization which fought the anti-saloon movement.

Brand charges the mismanagement, undue inflation of the value of assets, false statements, and the loss of nearly half the former business. He says that while he was absent in California Pilliod changed the by-laws so as to get absolute control, that he overdraw his accounts and that the system of bookkeeping was so designed as to hide the true condition of the company.

Railroad Officials Looking For Him.

Princeton, Ind., June 28.—Southern railroad officials are trying to learn the identity of a man on the wrecked Southern passenger train at Bellmont, Ill., a few days ago, who claimed to be a Louisville physician and charged wounded passengers exorbitant prices for his services. The man is believed to have been no physician at all, because of his unprofessional conduct. As soon as the wreck occurred it is said he was out among the injured soliciting business, and charging as high as $10 each for putting on bandages and patches.

Swamping Dead Letter Office.

Washington, June 28.—Failure to enclose tinselled or frosted post cards in tightly sealed envelopes to prevent the escape of particles of tinsel, mica and the like, as required by the postal regulations, is causing from fifteen to twenty thousand of such cards to be withdrawn from the mails and sent to the dead letter office of the postoffice department every day.

The Filipinos Branching Out.

Honolulu, O., June 28.—Sugar plantation owners here and in other parts of the archipelago have learned that over 100 Filipino laborers are coming to Hawaii in the hope of taking the places of Japanese laborers. That many more Filipinos desire to come is the report among the planters.

Big Turnfest Closes.

Cincinnati, O., June 28.—With the awarding of prizes in the athletic contests Sunday evening the thirtieth turnfest of the North American Gymnastic Union passed into history and today is get-away day for many of the thousands of visitors brought here by the meet.

TELEPHONE. 1111.

GEORGE H. EARLE, JR., CURBER OF THE SUGAR TRUST AND FINANCIAL DOCTOR.

student, with an accurate mind and well thought out conclusions, yet has time to be serene and to take a whole view of life. He is sprung from a family that goes back to the days of the Mayflower and is himself the father of seven, of whom his proudest boast is that they have not a blemish.

Rather inspiring type, is he not, this man who has brought the sugar trust to its knees and is now engaged in straightening out the Philadelphia traction trouble? He is clear cut and does not mince words, as was proved by his laconic statement of the manner in which he had laid the sugar trust evidence before the last administration and urged it to prosecute under the criminal clause of the antitrust law. That sugar affair is a story in itself, one that would require more than one newspaper page adequately to tell, but in brief may be summarized as follows:

How Sugar Trust Removed a Rival.

Adolph Segal, an Austrian promoter and dreamer of dreams, got into the sugar refinery habit—that is, he would build refineries for the trust to buy out and shut down. Finally he absorbed the old Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company and built a big refinery in Camden, N. J. About that time he needed a million dollars, or a million and a quarter, to be exact, and tried to borrow of some Philadelphia friends.

Enter at this point Gustav E. Kissel, a benevolent New York gentleman, who told Segal that there were plenty of New York dollars that were simply yearning to be loaned out, and why should he bother with these Philadelphia persons? This sounded to Segal like ready money, and as that was what he wanted, and wanted right away, Kissel was taken on promptly and with joy. When it came to the matter of collateral security our New York cash proposition was not quite so benevolent as he at first appeared. He wanted not only the first mortgage on a big hotel of Segal's, but—and this was more important—the bonds, stocks and voting control of the sugar refinery. As poor Segal still had to have criminating evidence against the gentlemen of sugar and proceeded to use it. First he laid it before Attorney General Bonaparte, and when that gentleman failed to act Mr. Earle brought suit on his own hook. It was this suit which the sugar trust recently settled out of court by the payment of $2,000,000, the surrender of all the securities put up by Segal and the cancellation of the original $1,250,000 loan. The settlement was not made until the judge had ruled adversely to the trust and ordered the evidence to go to the jury. As the suit was for $10,000,000, which under the triple penalty clause of the law became $30,000,000, and as the sugar people were looking for favorable tariff schedules in Washington, the reason for their haste to fix the matter up outside of court is apparent. Nevertheless it implied a confession of guilt.

The payment of $2,000,000 to the United States government because of frauds against the New York custom house grew out of like causes, and it is believed that the Earle testimony had not a little to do with that case also. This was the identical proof laid before the attorney general of the last administration. As for that official's failure to act, the reasons are rather more than hinted at in a letter from Mr. Earle to the attorney general himself. In it he referred to several newspaper stories to the effect that the sugar trust had such powerful influences at work that the government would do nothing against it and continued:

Were it not for your assurances I would be inclined to trouble you no further in the matter, so widespread seems the impression, if I am to judge from the communications sent me, that the sugar trust is immune from attack by the present administration. I inclose two samples from the mass that reaches me. How do you account for that? They come from widely separated points. One that I send is from Pittsburg, the other from St. Louis, and yet, so far as I can see, there is nothing to base them on except the department's inaction to this time, the employment of a firm of attorneys by the trust with Washington connections and the president's good will to a single member of the Parsons family, none of which or all of which together would not influ-

OLD ADAGES NEED TO BE REVISED NOW

Among Other Things, Lightning Does Strike in the Same Place Twice.

AS EVIDENCED LAST NIGHT

There is an old adage that reads "Lightning never strikes in the same place twice." This time-honored saying was proven to be a fallacy when the enraged Jupiter hurled a bolt last night during the electrical, wind and rain storm, striking an old tree near the Catholic cemetery. The tree was splintered and split in two last fall by lightning.

HOW ABOUT OUR MILL RACE

Somebody Should Write to State Geologist Blatchley About It.

State Geologist W. H. Blatchley is touring the larger streams of the State, engaged in locating water power sites. There have come to Mr. Blatchley's office so many inquiries from manufacturers concerning water power sites that the State geologist determined to locate all available ones. The increased price of coal is the cause of the present movement to get water power. Mr. Blatchley says that good sites are scarce, no more than four having been located on any stream.
